'IT'S LIKE A LITTLE HEART IN OUR CITY'

BY TERESA VARLEY
STEELERS.COM

The Steelers celebrated their Alumni Week-end virtually, honoring the 20th season at Heinz Field. Steelers Legends shared their Heinz Field stories as a part of the celebration.

Home.

It's a place where we find comfort, where we gather with friends and family, where we enjoy wonderful times together and celebrate special occasions.

It a place where traditions are made, where milestones are recognized and where we enjoy life with the ones we are closest to.

Home, quite simply, is where the heart is.

And for the Steelers, for 20 seasons, home is Heinz Field.

The games, the wins, the plays, the bright gold seats, the Heinz Ketchup bottles, the Terrible Towels, 'Renegade,' the fans and the memories. Those are some of the comforts of home the team has enjoyed since Heinz Field opened in 2001 and through the 20 seasons it has been a place where the black and gold has found success and brought joy to countless Steelers fans.

October 7, 2001.

This wasn't supposed to be a historic date in Heinz Field history. It wasn't supposed to be the date the first regular season game was played at Heinz Field.

But after the team's Week 2 game against the Cleveland Browns, which was to have been played on Sept. 16, 2001 at Heinz Field, was postponed because of the September 11 attacks, that October date became the date of the first regular season game at the team's shiny, new home.

And what a game it was, as the Steelers christened Heinz Field by defeating the Cincinnati Bengals, 16-7.

With a backdrop of American flags waving during pregame and national pride at a peak, the Steelers knew they had a job to do.

"The atmosphere was kind of mixed," said Mark Bruener, the former tight end selected in the first round of the 1995 NFL Draft and now a college scout with the team. "There was so much excitement for the opening of the new stadium, but there was sadness because of the events that happened on September 11. We, as the NFL and as a team, looked at that opportunity to not celebrate ourselves, or open Heinz Field as a stadium, but rather make our city an example to the country of our solitude to bring us together and show our solidarity with regards to the events that happened in the weeks leading up.

"The halftime, with President (George W.) Bush addressing the country and that being shown on the scoreboard, that was an example of the country's solidarity. I was happy we were able to show everyone that."

Along with that pride in the country was also a feeling of fear, and Bruener and his teammates knew the one thing they had to do was play without fear.

Jerome Bettis delivered, just like you would expect. Bettis, who was acquired by the Steelers via a trade in 1996 and went on to be a Pro Football Hall of Fame selection, carried the ball 23 times for 153 yards, including a 48-yard run, and had amassed 103 yards by halftime.

It was a rather nondescript three-yard carry in the first quarter that provided the first great memory in Heinz Field history when Bettis eclipsed the 10,000-yard mark for his career, becoming the 14th player in NFL history to do so at the time.

The joy it brought the team, and even more the fans, even if for just three hours, was huge.

"We knew going into the game he was going to be close to the mark," said Bruener. "For him to achieve that unique mark in the first game at Heinz Field, it was exhilarating for all of us. To be a teammate of his and know that you were a teammate of a future Hall of Fame running back at the time and for him to achieve that, it was really special."

Bettis remembers the moment, the group of fans in the stands holding up the individual numbers to signify 10,000 yards.

"That was sweet," said Bettis. "To have such a memorable moment in the new stadium on a day when people needed something positive. It was like kicking off the stadium and bringing the stadium into the family. It's a new stadium, is it going to work. Then you do something good there and everyone accepts it like home. It was a good way to welcome Heinz Field into the family."

Moving on up.

That is what the Steelers did when they stepped foot into Heinz Field.

Now, this isn't a knock on Three Rivers Stadium. It was home to a lifetime of memories for the Steelers and their fans.

But like everything in life, change is inevitable.

Three Rivers Stadium was a multi-purpose one, built for football and baseball. It lacked the modern conveniences and many of the comforts and luxuries that NFL stadiums have today.

It was a good way to welcome Heinz Field to the family."

-JEROME BETTIS

The memories there will never go away, but it was time to find a new home.

"It was like we left an F-150 truck that was tough and rugged, and we went to a Ferrari and this is something else," said Bettis. "It had all of the bells and whistles, the locker room, everything was state of the art. Where we came from was doable, it was sturdy, it was great, but it was well past its prime. To go into Heinz Field, it was like 'Wow.'"

"Playing at Heinz Field, the atmosphere was incredible. It was the fans that made the atmosphere. The stadium is the backdrop. It provided a beautiful backdrop looking out to the city in the open side. It was an incredible canvas for us to provide the story and the picture."

Like Bettis said, it really was like, 'Wow.' Spacious locker rooms. Fans closer to the field. Better sightlines. Everything a player dreams of, Heinz Field has delivered and continues to do so.

"Night and day to say the least," said Bruener. "Three Rivers Stadium was a dual-purpose stadium for the Pirates and Steelers."

"I remember walking into the weight room at Three Rivers for the first time and my high school weight room had a bigger footprint. I am looking like 'Wow, this is interesting.' Then I realized the four Super Bowls that were won prior to me getting there were won by players who trained in that weight room and I thought, well, if it was good enough for them, it's definitely good enough for me."

"I remember my first minicamp and guys were talking about our grass practice field. I was like where is it? They said you just walk down the street, a block past the warehouse and cross the street. I thought they were joking. Sure enough, I follow everybody out and we go out there and I am like, that is the practice field. Having that as how I was introduced to the NFL made me appreciate what I have. If an individual is willing to work in any type of environment, you can be successful. But it was sure nice to have Heinz Field to work at."

"Heinz Field was built just for football and laid out for fan engagement. You would feel it at Three Rivers, but to the nth degree at Heinz Field. Maybe it was how close the fans were. They were leaning over the railing and cheering and showing their excitement and emotion."

"You can't describe it and give it justice. The hairs on the back of your neck standing up. The butterflies in your stomach. Those are all unique things, they really are."

Playing at Heinz Field
meant a lot to me personally and our team.”

—HEATH MILLER

Heinz Field truly was home for tight end Heath Miller, the team's first-round pick in the 2005 NFL Draft who played his entire 11-year career there. It was a place he loved, a place he and his teammates found success, a place that was everything and then some to him.

"Playing at Heinz Field meant a lot to me personally and our team," said Miller. "It was home to us. All of the comforts of home. Driving through the city, the picturesque look of the stadium by the river, seeing the fans tailgating. It's a scene, looking back at my career, that made you feel at home when you were driving to the stadium on game day. Once the game kicked off the fans are the most passionate and best in the NFL. That was to our advantage for sure."

"It has some unique characteristics. The one end was fully open, even though they closed it some now. It was unique. I think it fits the city, the personality of the team and the community. It's a special place."

"Playing there is something I will never forget. The memories are ones I will always hold dear. I came back to one game for a reunion a couple of years ago. It was my first game back at Heinz Field since I retired. The hair on the back of my neck, I got goosebumps walking back in there. The feeling that you had, that unique special feeling you had out there to play a game, will never go away."

"You always have the vision of a sea of Terrible Towels twirling and 65,000 people going crazy. It's a picture you will never forget in your mind. It was always quite the scene to see the Terrible Towels twirling at key times in the game."

While Heinz Field was built in the shadows of Three Rivers Stadium, the look and the feel were completely different.

"It's a special spot," said Brett Keisel, a former defensive end who played for the Steelers for 13 seasons. "Right there on the North Shore where the three rivers connect and the history that has been laid there. Being able to go out there and play for a city that is blue collar, hard-working, loves and supports their team was a dream come true. When they light it up, when things get loud in there and the towels start twirling, I think the whole city starts to shake. It's definitely unique."

"When people come to Pittsburgh to visit, Heinz Field is the first thing that slaps you in the face when you come through the Fort Pitt Tunnel. It's the first thing I saw."

"It's like a little heart in our city."

The plays. The games. The moments. The memories.

They are plentiful. They are joyful. They are forever embedded in the minds and hearts of any of us who have spent many a Sunday afternoon or night, or a Monday night, at Heinz Field.

And they are forever embedded in the minds of those who played in the games, who were a part of making those memories.

"As a player you try to describe the exhilaration when you run out of the tunnel and they announce your name as a part of the starting lineup," said Bruener. "When you run out of that end zone, and that tunnel, and you would look in the stands and see the Terrible Towels swinging, a sea of yellow. When you are the player, they introduce you, and you are running out there and see that sea of yellow, it's one of the most unique sights any player can see. That just shows how great our fan base is. That is a memory that will always be with me."

There are 20 seasons of memories. Twenty seasons of highlight films. Twenty seasons of the best of the best.

"It's hard to pick one memory. There are so many," said Keisel. "The thing that stands out are the AFC Championships. The moments before it, being able to win an AFC Championship, winning it for the first time at Heinz Field, there in front of our fans was special. Any time you can make history it sticks with you."

Oh yes, those AFC Championship games. The Steelers won two AFC Championship games at Heinz Field, one in 2009 when they defeated the Baltimore Ravens, the second in 2011 when they defeated the New York Jets.

"Probably my favorite memory was when we got to play the AFC Championship game at home in 2009," said Miller. "We beat the Ravens for the third time that year. Just the celebration afterwards. When you win a Super Bowl, the crowd is kind of neutral. Yes, there are a lot of Steelers fans there, but for us to win that game in our house, in front of our family so to speak, that was cool to enjoy that moment not only with our team, but with our city as well."

The Steelers beat the Ravens, 23-14, on January 18, 2009 in the AFC Championship game before going on to win Super Bowl XLIII. The defense had three interceptions and two sacks, but it would be Troy Polamalu's interception that would make the difference. On third-and-13 from the Ravens' 29-yard line, Polamalu intercepted Ravens' quarterback Joe Flacco at the 40-yard line and took it all the way back for a touchdown and 23-14 Steelers lead, which would secure the win and a trip to Super Bowl XLIII.

"The one moment I will never forget is Troy's interception in the AFC Championship game," said Ryan Clark, who signed with the Steelers in 2006 as an unrestricted free agent. "It signified so much. It was against the Ravens. It signified we had the chance to do something that we dreamt about as little kids, and that was the play that put us there. It felt like the right person made the right play, at the right time, in the right place. To me it was the most sweet and poetic moment I have had on the football field. For that to happen in front of our fans, for him to finish it there in the end zone we ran down to before the game, and make that play, and us all be a part of it, that is the first moment that sticks out to me when I think of Heinz Field."

"What was so crazy is usually during the play, you don't recognize the fans. But when the play is over, you hear the fans. When Troy crossed the goal line, you could hear them going crazy. As much as we were celebrating ourselves, it was almost deafening. We were screaming, but we couldn't hear each other. We were yelling for Troy and he couldn't hear us. It was our moment. We shared that together. It was part of history. Every fan that was in Heinz Field knows where they were sitting and what they were wearing when he made that play because it was so much about all of us."

Those AFC Championship games weren't the only great memories. Yes, they were two of the games that were among the recently selected highlights in Heinz Field history, but there were others including the Wild Card win over the Cleveland Browns in 2003, the Christmas Day win over the Ravens in 2016 when Antonio Brown extended his arm for a game-winning touchdown reception to win the AFC North, and the Steelers win over the Chicago Bears, when Jerome Bettis ran over Brian Urlacher in a game that was critical in the Steelers run to Super Bowl XL.

That highlight reel of Bettis running over Urlacher in the win over the Bears is one that will never get old for Steelers fans. Willie Parker started the game at running back, but it was Jerome Bettis who would finish with 17 carries for 101 yards and two touchdowns. And it was that second touchdown that is still talked about today and was a testament to what Bettis meant to the team.

With snow falling and the conditions deteriorating, the Steelers called on Bettis and he answered.

"My role is to come in and spell Willie, but this game set up for me in terms of the conditions and the field," said Bettis after the game. "I've always been known as a mudder, and the field really played into my favor in terms of being able to run the ball."

No, he wasn't a starter any longer, but he was a force to be reckoned with. Just ask Urlacher. In the third quarter Bettis barreled through the Bears' defense, leveling Urlacher as he tried to hold on to Bettis with no luck as he scored on a five-yard touchdown run.

"It was a counter play. I was going from the left to the right," recalled Bettis. "I was running behind Alan Faneca. I went through the hole. As soon as I got through, there was a safety that showed up pretty quickly. Without thinking, boom, I ran him over and then I see Urlacher coming and it was one of those, okay, here it goes. That was the moment of truth. I had just run the one guy over and I didn't have as much momentum as I would like to. I kind of dipped through, ripped through, and kept my knees kind of moving. That was the part that kept me going forward. I kept the knees going. Once I saw the end zone, I was like 'I have to get there. I am too close.' So, I dove to make sure I got there."

"I think about the play, but for me it signified our Super Bowl run and how we were able to go from almost missing actually playing in the playoffs to going on and that game propelling us to win the championship. That means more to me than having a great individual play. That is the play that represented us going on to win the championship."

Steelers fans.

We all know what they mean to the team and the one thing everyone wondered when the team moved from Three Rivers Stadium to Heinz Field was how would the fans react.

The 2005 Game against the Chicago Bears is considered one of the Top 5 games in Heinz Field history. ▲

Three Rivers Stadium had been their home for a long time, season ticket holders who had become accustomed to what was familiar.

But if there was any doubt how they would adapt, it was answered quickly.

"Through thick and thin they are always going to cheer for you," said Bruener. "Their allegiance to Steelers football is unique. I played for the Houston Texans at the end of my career. They have good fans, but the energy and passion our fans have is unique. When you talk to somebody who has been a season ticket holder for 40-plus years, or a second or third generation, that is the uniqueness of the support we have."

Bettis remembered seeing the stands shake at Three Rivers Stadium, even if that wasn't the plan. But what he saw at Heinz Field, it just blew him away.

"It was amazing. To see them waving those towels. To see the energy," said Bettis. "That's just something that as a football player you feed off. We would see that. That would get us going. In the fourth quarter, when they would get on their feet, that sent goosebumps through your body. It was great for us to have that visual in our head and it never got old."

"We always loved it. It never got old to see the Terrible Towels wave, that crowd. That was an intimidation factor as well. Those guys on the other side saw it too and knew they were in a hostile environment."

Hostile toward the other team, yes.

Loving the home team, absolutely yes.

"It was amazing," said Clark. "I went to LSU which is a school that is deep in football tradition. I just feel like a lot of NFL stadiums didn't have tradition. They didn't have things that when you went into the stadium on Sunday, you knew you were going to get. That everybody knew was coming. Also, Pittsburgh gave you that college town field. You didn't walk around Pittsburgh and see fans of the Baltimore Ravens, Cleveland Browns or Cincinnati Bengals. If you lived in Pittsburgh, if you were a part of that culture, you were a Steelers fan. Because of that when you walked into the stadium, you felt like you were playing in front of family."

"When the screen would go black, and you would hear 'Renegade' start, everybody knew what was coming. And when you saw the Terrible Towels, everybody knew what time it was. The atmosphere was so amazing, traditional, historic. It made it feel like the stadium was around forever because it wasn't just about the building, it was about the people. That was the greatest thing about what Heinz Field brought to us each and every week."

There might not have been anyone who felt that love more than Miller. If you were at a game at any point in Miller's career you no doubt heard it any time Miller touched the ball.

'Heeeeeeeath.'

It was a constant. The crowd would erupt in a roar in unison every time he caught the ball, and even sometimes when other tight ends caught the ball.

"Looking back, and at the time, it made you feel good, especially when you are giving your all to the team and all the work and preparation you put in," said Miller. "To have that kind of affirmation by the fans and be appreciated, there is no better feeling. When I said Heinz Field was home, when you hear the fans chant your name and cheer for you in that way, it makes you feel even better, that you are home, that you are accepted and cheered on."

"Heinz Field, the fans were a huge part of our success. We played some big games in that stadium. We won some big games in that stadium. There was always a comfort when we were playing at home in front of our fans. We never felt like we were going to lose when we were there."

Renegade

"Oh Mama, I'm in fear for my life from the long arm of the law."

"Lawman has put an end to my running and I'm so far from my home."

"Oh Mama, I can hear you a-crying and you're so scared and all alone."

"Hangman is coming down from the gallows and I don't have very long."

Close your eyes for a minute and picture the scene.

The screen on the giant scoreboard in the South end zone goes black.

You hear a murmur through the crowd, that will eventually become a deafening roar.

The music begins calmly as defensive highlights burst onto the screen, and all eyes are glued on the havoc the defense has brought on opponents as Terrible Towels wave.

The players on the field and sideline are jumping around, getting the crowd fired up, while the opposing team sometimes looks, and other times just looks away.

And then...you hear that scream and Heinz Field explodes.

It's 'Renegade' time. A time that will always be special for every player who has experienced it.

"Those are memories that are embedded into my brain and into my body, those moments when that screen went black," said Keisel. "That first rift comes on and the crowd starts to buzz, electrify. We have a big stop, or a big turnover, game-changing play because of that energy that was created. It's something that goes up my spine every time I hear it, even on the radio. It's a legendary song that has legendary meaning."

Renegade is "a legendary song that has legendary meaning," remarked Brett Keisel. ▲

That was the thing. When that song was played, it meant the defense was needed for a big play. It meant the pressure was on.

"What was crazy about it is you almost got nervous," said Clark. "As hyped as you got, there was an expectation of very high-level defensive play once that song went off. The biggest thing for me is it was always a signal. Although the highlights were us, it was always a signal that Pittsburgh Steelers defense was bigger than the people on the field. It was always a sign that more than anywhere else in the world, defense mattered to what we were doing. When you think about the Steel Curtain, the Steel Curtain is as synonymous with any dynasty in sports. It's because it was built on defense. It was built on physicality. It was one of those reminders that people that cheer for this team care about what the 11 people on that side of the ball do. It's not just about the flair and fun of offense. It's about imposing your will on somebody."

"For me it was a sign it's time to go to work. It wasn't just a chance to get the crowd hyped, it was letting you know that everybody here is rocking with you, everybody here is dependent on you. When we are great, it's because our defense is dominant. It was our turn to go out and show we are dominant."

Even those on the offensive side of the ball, some who always seemed so cool and collected, had their juices flowing when 'Renegade' was played.

"It was cool. I was jealous I couldn't be out there for that play," said Miller. "It not only got the defense, but the whole team pumped up. Fortunately, when I played, like they are now, the defense was really special. It got our whole team juiced up to hear that song. To see our defense go to work and make big plays after that song, that was special."

The memories at Heinz Field for these players will last forever, and for them the best part is, the memories are continuing.

"Heinz Field is an amazing place," said Bettis. "It will be an amazing place for years to come."

MIKE TOMLIN

Mike Tomlin was named the 16th head coach in Pittsburgh Steelers history on January 22, 2007.

Hired at the age of 34, Tomlin became only the third head coach hired by the Steelers since 1969. In his 13 seasons as head coach of the Pittsburgh Steelers, Tomlin has accomplished many things that have never been done in the team's storied history. A franchise known for stability at the head coaching position, Tomlin ranks among the League's longest-tenured head coaches following the 2019 season.

Tomlin became the youngest head coach in NFL history to both coach in and win a Super Bowl when he led the Steelers to a 27-23 victory over the Arizona Cardinals in Super Bowl XLIII (36 years, 323 days). By winning the Super Bowl in only his second season as a head coach, he also became the fastest to win a Super Bowl title in Steelers history.

In his 13 years as head coach of the Steelers, Tomlin has led Pittsburgh to six AFC North titles, most recently in 2017, and has guided the Steelers to the playoffs eight times, including two trips to the Super Bowl (XLIII and XLV). Tomlin has won at least five home games in each of his first 13 years, including five at Heinz Field in 2019.

Tomlin has sent a total of 61 selections to the NFL's annual Pro Bowl, including the five players who received Pro Bowl honors for the 2019 season. Additionally, Tomlin was appointed by Commissioner Roger Goodell to the NFL's Competition Committee in March 2013.

Tomlin is one of only eight coaches in League history to win a Super Bowl within his first two seasons as an NFL head coach. He is the only head coach in Steelers history to lead the team to two Super Bowls in his first four seasons at the helm, including an appearance against the Green Bay Packers in Super Bowl XLV. He is one of only two Steelers head coaches to win three division titles in his first four seasons.

Tomlin has led Pittsburgh to a 133-74-1 record in the regular season since becoming the team's head coach in 2007 - the second-best record in the NFL during that time span. His 133-74-1 regular-season record (.642) is the best start in franchise history.

Pittsburgh was beset with injuries in 2019. The Steelers lost quarterback Ben Roethlisberger with a season-ending elbow injury in Week 2. Running back James Conner missed six games, wide receiver JuJu Smith-Schuster missed four games, and was sidelined for the majority of two others, and defensive end Stephon Tuitt missed the final 10 games of the season. Even backups - quarterback Mason Rudolph and running back Jaylen Samuels missed multiple games. Starting center Maurkice Pouncey missed three games. Starting left guard Ramon Foster and starting tight end Vance McDonald were both sidelined two games for concussions. Undrafted rookie free-agent Devlin Hodges was forced to play in eight games (six starts), and, despite an 0-3 start, Tomlin still led Pittsburgh to a record of 8-8.

Tomlin helped a Steelers defense that ranked as one of the NFL's best in 2019. Pittsburgh led or tied for the League-lead in sacks (54.0), quarterback hits (117), takeaways (36), fumble recoveries (17) and rush TDs allowed (7).

The Steelers also ranked among the NFL's top-five in interceptions (2nd, 20), interception rate (2nd, 3.89%), passing defense (3rd, 194.6), yards per play allowed (3rd, 4.74), passes defended (3rd, 83), yards per rush allowed (3rd, 3.79), forced fumbles (t-3rd, 19), tackles for loss (t-3rd, 90), opposing passer rating (4th, 80.7), pass yards per attempt allowed (4th, 6.06), total defense (5th, 304.1), scoring defense (t-5th, 18.9) and offensive TDs allowed (5th, 30). The Steelers also limited 11 opponents below 200 yards passing, which led the League.

Tomlin secured his 13th straight non-losing season with the Steelers' eighth win in 2019, a 23-17 victory at Arizona in Week 14, a streak dating back to his first season as the team's head coach in 2007. Tomlin is one of three head coaches in NFL history to begin a head coaching tenure with at least 13 consecutive non-losing seasons - joining Marty Schottenheimer (14, 1984-97) and Don Shula (13, 1963-75).

Steelers defense ranked as one of the NFL's best in 2019.

Tomlin reached 125 career wins in the fewest games (192) in team history, tying him with Bud Grant for the fifth-fewest games by an NFL head coach to secure 125 regular season wins. He is the third head coach in NFL history with 133 or more regular-season wins in their first 13 seasons as a head coach, joining Tony Dungy: 139 and Shula: 138.

Over the past five seasons (2013-19), Tomlin has led the team to a 24-9 record in the month of December/January.

Tomlin led the Steelers to a record of 9-6-1 in 2018, becoming one of five head coaches in NFL history to begin a head coaching tenure with 12 consecutive non-losing seasons. With a Week 5 win against Atlanta, he and quarterback Ben Roethlisberger broke a tie with Chuck Noll and Terry Bradshaw for the most wins by a head coach-quarterback tandem in franchise history. The duo's 125 regular-season wins are the fourth-most by a head coach-quarterback pairing in NFL history.

Roethlisberger set single-season franchise records for touchdown passes (34), pass completions (452) and passing yards (5,129) in 2018, while leading all NFL players in pass completions and passing yardage. Wide receiver Antonio Brown led the NFL with a single-season franchise record 15 TD catches. Brown and second-year wide receiver JuJu Smith-Schuster also made history, becoming the sixth wide receiver duo in NFL history and first in Steelers history to record 100 receptions and 1,000 yards apiece in a single season. Smith-Schuster was voted team MVP for his breakout year.

With Tomlin at the helm, six Steelers were named to the Pro Bowl for their 2018 performances — the third consecutive season with at least five selections. Brown, running back James Conner, defensive tackle Cameron Heyward and offensive linemen David DeCastro, Maurkice Pouncey and Alejandro Villanueva all received Pro Bowl accolades.

In 2017, Tomlin led the Steelers to a 13-3 record, including a 6-0 record against the AFC North, securing his sixth division title and a No. 2 seed in the AFC for the postseason. The team's 13 wins marked the most wins in a single season in the Tomlin era.

Under Tomlin's guidance, Roethlisberger became the eighth quarterback in NFL history to reach 50,000 passing yards, finishing the 2017 season with a career total of 51,065. Brown was voted team MVP for his outstanding performance and became the first Steeler to earn the honor four times (2011, '13, '15 and '17). Brown led the league with 1,533 receiving yards and set an NFL record for the most receptions (582) and receiving yards (7,848) by a player in any five-year span in League history.

For the second straight season, running back Le'Veon Bell led the AFC in scrimmage yards per game (129.7) and surpassed his own Steelers single-season record for receptions by a running back with 85. Defensively, the team led the NFL and set a Steelers single-season record with 56 sacks in 2017.

MAKING HISTORY

Tomlin is 1 of 3 head coaches in NFL history to begin their tenure with 13 consecutive non-losing seasons.

The head coach-quarterback pairing of Mike Tomlin and Ben Roethlisberger hold the record for most win in franchise history.

For their efforts, Roethlisberger, Brown and Bell were named to the Pro Bowl along with kicker Chris Boswell, linebacker Ryan Shazier, and offensive linemen DeCastro, Pouncey and Villanueva. Brown, Bell and DeCastro were also named AP All-Pro, along with Heyward. Heyward and fullback Roosevelt Nix were also added to the Pro Bowl roster prior to the game.

The Steelers finished with an 11-5 record in 2016, and won each of the team's final seven regular-season games, to secure the AFC North title and No. 3 seed in the AFC for the postseason. It marked the fifth time Tomlin led the Steelers to at least 11 wins in the regular season. Pittsburgh won its first two postseason games, vs. Miami in an AFC Wild Card Game and at Kansas City in an AFC Divisional Playoff, before falling to the New England Patriots in the AFC Championship Game.

Bell was voted the Steelers' MVP for his 2016 efforts. He led the NFL in scrimmage yards per game (157.0), and he became the fastest player in NFL history to reach 3,000 rushing yards and 1,500 receiving yards in his career (38 games). In the Steelers' Week 14 victory at Buffalo in 2016, Bell set the single-game team record with 236 rushing yards and tied the single-game team mark with three rushing TDs.

Roethlisberger and Brown continued to etch their names in NFL history. Roethlisberger finished the season with the ninth-most passing TDs in NFL history (301) and the 10th-most passing yards in NFL history (46,814). Brown set numerous NFL records, including one for the most receptions in a player's first 100 career regular-season games (622) and one for the most receptions in NFL history by a player in any four-year span (481).

Tomlin also reached his 100th career win in 2016 and did so in the fewest games (157) in team history. He became the eighth head coach in NFL history to reach 100 regular-season wins in their first 10 seasons.

Despite significant injuries to multiple starters during the 2015 season, the Steelers finished with a 10-6 record (2nd in the AFC North) and advanced to the Divisional Round of the playoffs. The Steelers finished third in the NFL in total offense (1st in the AFC), while the defense posted 48 sacks under first-year defensive coordinator Keith Butler. The 48 sacks were the third most in the NFL in 2015.

In 2014, Tomlin orchestrated one of the top offensive outputs in team history. The Steelers broke numerous offensive records, including points scored (436), total yards (6,577), passing yards per game (301.6) and total first downs (379). On an individual basis in 2014, Tomlin guided Roethlisberger, Brown and Bell — who all made the Pro Bowl — to record-setting years.

Arguably one of his best coaching performances may have come in the second half of the 2013 season. Despite an 0-4 and 2-6 start to the season, the Steelers finished the regular season surging to a 6-2 second-half record, falling just short of the playoffs.

NFL LEADING DEFENSE

In 2012, Tomlin led the Steelers to a 27-10 victory over the New York Jets in the home opener, becoming the first coach in team history to win his first six home openers. The Steelers finished the season with the top-ranked overall defense (275.8 yards/game) and finished first in passing defense (185.2 yards/game).

In 2011, Tomlin led the Steelers to a 12-4 record, marking the second straight season the team posted 12 wins, which was only the second time in team history it had been achieved. The Steelers finished the season with the top-ranked total defense (271.8 ypg) and scoring defense (14.2 ppg). Pittsburgh posted a 7-1 record at home in 2011, for the second time in Tomlin's career (2007). He also had five players (Roethlisberger, Mike Wallace, Pouncey, Troy Polamalu and Brown) selected to the Pro Bowl following the season.

Tomlin's seven road wins during the 2010 regular season tied a Steelers record previously set in 1978 and 2004. The Steelers finished second in total defense under Tomlin's guidance in 2010, allowing only 276.8 yards per game. Pittsburgh led the NFL and set a team record in rushing defense, yielding only 62.8 yards per game (1,004 yards), the third-best total in NFL history dating back to 1970. The Steelers also established an NFL record in 2010 by not allowing an opponent to rush for more than 75 yards in any of their first eight games during the regular season.

In all, the Steelers' defense led the NFL in 2010 in rushing yards allowed (62.8 yds./game), points allowed (232), touchdowns allowed (22), quarterback sacks (48), rushing average (3.0), yards per play (4.5) and yards allowed on first down (4.08). It finished second in the league in passing average (6.31), turnover advantage (+14) and red-zone efficiency (40.0, tied).

Under Tomlin, the Steelers broke new ground on offense in 2009. Pittsburgh's offense ranked seventh in the NFL (ninth passing, 19th rushing) but became the first unit in team history to boast a 4,000-yard passer (Roethlisberger), two 1,000-yard receivers (Hines Ward, Antonio Holmes) and a 1,000-yard rusher (Rashard Mendenhall) in the same season. Pittsburgh's defense ranked fifth in the NFL (third vs. run, 16th vs. pass) while leading the AFC and finishing one shy of the NFL lead with 47 quarterback sacks.

The Steelers continued to be dominant at Heinz Field under Tomlin in 2009. Pittsburgh finished with a 6-2 home record after finishing 7-1 (2007) and 6-2 (2008) at home during Tomlin's first two seasons.

Tomlin finished the 2008 season with a 12-4 record and his second consecutive AFC North Division title, becoming the only Steelers head coach to win division crowns in each of his first two seasons. He also set a record with 22 regular-season wins in his first two years at the helm and is the only Steelers head coach to win at least 10 games in each of his first two seasons. Tomlin's .688 winning percentage (22-10) after two years is the best in Steelers history.

BACK TO BACK TITLES

Tomlin finished the 2008 season with a 12-4 record and his second consecutive AFC North Division title.

The Steelers' defense was dominant under Tomlin's guidance in 2008, leading the NFL in total defense (237.2), pass defense (156.9), points per game (13.9), total yards per play (3.9), rushing yards per attempt (3.3), passing yards per attempt (4.7) and third-down efficiency (31.4), while finishing second in rush defense (80.3).

Tomlin led the Steelers to a 10-6 record in 2007 and became just the second coach in team history to post a winning record, win a division title and earn a playoff berth in his inaugural season. Tomlin began his head coaching career by becoming only the second Steelers head coach to win his first three games. During 2007, the Steelers became just the fifth team in NFL history to win their first four home games by at least 20 points.

Tomlin guided the Steelers to the NFL's top-ranked defense in 2007, yielding only 266.4 yards per game. The Steelers' defense ranked third in the NFL against both the run (89.9 avg.) and the pass (176.5 avg.), and finished third in the league in total yards allowed per play (4.6). Pittsburgh's defense led the NFL in passing yards per play (5.7) and first downs allowed per game (15.6), and finished second in the league in points allowed per game (16.8).

The Steelers' offense finished third in the NFL in rushing (135.5 avg.) during Tomlin's first season, sparked by Willie Parker, who led the league in rushing before injuring his leg in Week 16. Roethlisberger enjoyed a record-setting season during Tomlin's first year, establishing new team records for TD passes (32) and passer rating (104.1) while earning his first career Pro Bowl appearance.

Tomlin was the NFL's second-youngest head coach in 2007, and he became only the second Steelers coach in team history to win at least 10 games during his first year at the helm. The Steelers posted a 7-1 record at home in 2007 and were 5-1 in the AFC North (3-0 at home).

Tomlin spent the 2006 season as the Minnesota Vikings' defensive coordinator. That season, the Vikings ranked eighth in the NFL in total defense and first against the run while not allowing a 100-yard rusher the entire season.

Tomlin was the defensive backs coach with the Tampa Bay Buccaneers from 2001-05. In 2002, Tomlin guided one of the most productive defensive backfields in the NFL, culminating with its performance in Super Bowl XXXVII. The secondary recorded four of the team's five interceptions, returning two for touchdowns, to help Tampa Bay capture the franchise's first Super Bowl title.

Before joining Tampa Bay's staff, Tomlin served two seasons as the defensive backs coach at the University of Cincinnati (1999-00). He took over a secondary that ranked 111th in the nation in pass defense in 1998 and helped them improve to 61st overall in his first season. Under Tomlin's direction in 2000, the Bearcats ranked eighth in the nation in interceptions as well as fourth nationally in total turnovers.

Prior to joining the Cincinnati staff, Tomlin had a short stint on the coaching staff at Tennessee-Martin and then spent two seasons at Arkansas State, coaching wide receivers in 1997 before switching to defensive backs in 1998.

Tomlin spent the 1996 season as a graduate assistant at the University of Memphis, where he worked with the Tiger defensive backs and special teams units. He began his coaching career in 1995 as wide receivers coach at Virginia Military Institute.

Tomlin was a three-year starter at wide receiver at William & Mary (1990-94) and finished his career with 101 receptions for 2,054 yards and 20 TD catches. A first-team All-Yankee Conference selection in 1994, he established a school record with a 20.2 yards-per-catch average.

Tomlin is very active in the community and was recognized, along with his wife Kiya, in February 2013, by the Chuck Cooper Foundation with the Career Achievement in Leadership Diversity and Community Service Award. Tomlin also participates in the annual ManUp Pittsburgh conference which encourages local men to be better fathers and role models.

ASSISTANT COACHES

John Mitchell, the longest-tenured current member of the Steelers' coaching staff, is in his 27th season with the franchise, having served as the team's defensive line coach (1994-2016), and assistant head coach/defensive line (2007-17). He remained with the team following Mike Tomlin's hiring in January 2007, and was promoted to assistant head coach.

As assistant head coach, Mitchell oversees staff development among the coaching staff, works with current and former players in career development, and assists Head Coach Mike Tomlin in community related events.

Mitchell joined the Steelers' coaching staff on Jan. 31, 1994, and holds 48 seasons of coaching, including 15 years at the college level and two in the United States Football League.

Since his arrival in 1994, the Steelers' defensive front has helped the team lead the NFL in rush defense five times and finish in the top-10 in the League 18 times.

Mitchell joined the NFL ranks in 1991 as defensive line coach with the Browns, where he tutored two Pro Bowl defensive tackles, Michael Dean Perry and Rob Burnett.

His early years in coaching were spent under two of college football's greatest coaches as defensive line coach under Paul "Bear" Bryant at Alabama (1973-76) and under Lou Holtz at Arkansas (1977-82).

A starter at defensive end for Alabama, Mitchell was the first African American to play for the University of Alabama along with teammate Wilbur Jackson. He started all 24 games in his two seasons, when the team compiled a 21-3 record, won two Southeastern Conference championships, and earned All-SEC honors twice and All-American honors in his final season. He earned a bachelor's degree in social work in 1972, and in 2009 was elected into the Alabama Sports Hall of Fame.

Born in Mobile, Ala., Mitchell and his wife, Joyce, live in Pittsburgh.

KEITH BUTLER

DEFENSIVE COORDINATOR

Keith Butler is in his sixth season as the team's defensive coordinator. Butler served as the Steelers' linebackers coach for 12 seasons (2003-2014) after spending four seasons as the Cleveland Browns' linebackers coach.

In 2019, Butler's Steelers defense ranked as one of the NFL's best. Pittsburgh led or tied for the League-lead in sacks, quarterback hits, takeaways, fumble recoveries, rush TDs allowed and pass yards allowed. The Steelers also ranked among the NFL's top-five in interceptions, interception rate pass defense, yards per play allowed, passes defended, yards per rush allowed, forced fumbles, tackles for loss, opposing passer rating, pass yards per attempt allowed, total defense, scoring defense and offensive TDs allowed.

Pittsburgh was the only NFL team with three different players recording at least 9.0 sacks in 2019 (T.J. Watt-14.5, Bud Dupree-11.5, Cam Heyward-9.0). The Steelers have registered at least one sack in 57 consecutive games, the longest regular-season streak in team history, the longest active streak in the NFL and sixth-longest in League history.

In 2018, for the second consecutive year, Pittsburgh led the NFL for the most sacks with 52, tying Kansas City. Five Steelers tallied at least 5.0 sacks, led by second-year linebacker T.J. Watt's 13.0. Defensive tackle Cameron Heyward earned his first Pro Bowl selection, recording 8.0 sacks.

Butler spent nine years coaching collegiately, beginning at his alma mater, Memphis, coaching linebackers (1990-97), and defensive ends and special teams (1995-97). He was defensive coordinator and linebackers coach at Arkansas State in 1998.

He was drafted by Seattle in the second round in 1978 and played linebacker for the Seahawks for 10 seasons (1978-87).

A three-year starter at inside linebacker for Memphis, Butler finished his collegiate career with 384 tackles and seven interceptions.

Butler was born in Anniston, Ala. He and his wife Janet have three sons — Blake, Brandon and Brett.

RANDY FICHTNER

OFFENSIVE COORDINATOR

+ Randy Fichtner is in his third season as the Steelers' offensive coordinator, after eight seasons as quarterbacks coach and three prior coaching wide receivers.

Fichtner's offense was beset with injuries in 2019, including QB Ben Roethlisberger. Mason Rudolph, who replaced him, was the third quarterback since the 1970 AFL-NFL merger to record a passer rating of at least 81.4 and throw a TD in each of his first 6 career starts. He also was the fifth QB since then to throw a TD in each of his first eight career games. After Rudolph was injured, Fichtner helped Devlin Hodges become the first undrafted rookie QB in a non-strike year to win three starts in the same season since 1966.

In his first year as coordinator (2018), Pittsburgh led the NFL in red zone touchdown efficiency and net passing yards per game. Five of the team's six Pro Bowl selections were offensive players. Roethlisberger set single-season franchise records for touchdown passes, completions and passing yards, leading the NFL in completions and yards. Team MVP WR JuJu Smith-Schuster set single-season career highs for receptions and receiving yards, leading Pittsburgh in both. Running back James Conner became the first player in franchise history with at least 1,000 yards from scrimmage and 10 touchdowns in the first eight games of a season, finishing with 1,470 total yards (973 rushing) and 13 touchdowns.

Fichtner became offensive coordinator and quarterbacks coach at Memphis in 2001, having previously coached receivers and quarterbacks (1990-94). He spent four years at Arkansas State, and three at his alma mater, Purdue University.

A standout football player at Meadville (Pa.) Area Senior High School, Fichtner played defensive back at Purdue, graduating in 1985 with a bachelor's degree in health promotion.

He and his wife Jennifer have three children — son Nathaniel Ross, and daughters Shelby Brooke and Kirby Lynn.

DANNY SMITH

SPECIAL TEAMS COORDINATOR

+ Danny Smith is in his eighth season as the Steelers' special teams coordinator.

Kicker Chris Boswell made 29 of 31 field goal attempts in 2019, including 29 of 30 from inside 54 yards and 10 of 12 from 40+ yards. He tied for third in the NFL in field goals made and tied for fourth in field goals attempted and points (115). Among NFL kickers with at least 30 attempts, Boswell ranked second in field goal percentage. He was the only kicker in 2019 to not miss an extra-point attempt (28 of 28) and connected on at least 90% of his field goal attempts, the first NFL kicker to do so since 2017 and fifth since 2015, when the extra-point attempt moved to the 15-yard line.

Wide receiver/punt returner Diontae Johnson led the NFL in punt-return average (12.4) in 2019, the fifth player in franchise history to lead the League and first since the 1970 AFL-NFL merger. He returned a punt 85 yards for a TD at Arizona (12/8), the longest punt return for a TD in franchise history and first for the Steelers since 2015. Johnson was the first Pittsburgh rookie with a punt return for a TD since 2006.

Boswell landed 13 successful field goals in 2018, following a 2017 season where he earned his first Pro Bowl selection and established single-season franchise records for most field goals made and total points, in addition to setting a team record for most field goals made from 50 yards or further in a season. He also converted four game-winning field goal attempts in 2017.

Born and raised in Pittsburgh, Smith attended Central Catholic High School. He coached at Central Catholic (1977-78), helping tutor future Pro Football Hall of Fame quarterback Dan Marino.

Smith and his wife Elaine have three children — Erin, Courtney and Jason.

MATT CANADA

QUARTERBACKS COACH

+ Matt Canada is in his first season as the Steelers' quarterbacks coach. He was hired on January 15, 2020.

Canada, who was a finalist for the Broyles Award — honor given to college football's top assistant coach — in 2016, brings nearly two decades of experience as both a highly successful quarterbacks coach and offensive coordinator.

His units set offensive school records at Indiana, Northern Illinois, Wisconsin and Pittsburgh, and most recently as the interim head coach at the University of Maryland in 2018.

Canada served as the offensive coordinator and quarterbacks coach at LSU in 2017. Tigers quarterback Danny Etling threw 16 TDs and only 2 interceptions, while LSU finished the season No. 1 nationally in fewest turnovers. The Tigers won six of seven SEC games down the stretch, earning a trip to the Citrus Bowl.

In Canada's one season with the Panthers (2016), Pitt averaged a school-record 42 points per game, which ranked No. 10 in the nation. The Panthers led the nation in red-zone TD percentage (82%) and scored at least 28 points in all 12 regular-season games, including a 43-42 victory at eventual national champion Clemson. Pitt allowed just 9 sacks in the regular season, which was the fewest of any Power 5 program. Running back James Conner rushed for over 1,000 yards, scored 16 TDs, and earned first-team All-ACC honors. The Panthers finished the regular season 8-4 and earned a trip to the Pinstripe Bowl.

Canada earned his B.A. in Business (1993) and M.A. in Sports Administration (1995) at Indiana University.

+ James Daniel is in his 17th season coaching tight ends for the Steelers. Daniel, who was hired on January 24, 2004, remained with the team following Mike Tomlin's hiring in January of 2007.

Vance McDonald (50), Jesse James (30) and Xavier Grimble (6) combined for 86 receptions during the 2018 season under Daniel's tutelage. McDonald became the first Steelers tight end to haul in 50 catches in a season since 2015 (Heath Miller) and eclipse 600 receiving yards since 2014 (Miller). In the team's Week 2 Monday Night win at Tampa Bay, McDonald established a single-game career high of 112 receiving yards on 4 catches — marking the first 100-receiving yard game of his NFL career and becoming the second Steelers tight end since 1960 to have at least 100 receiving yards in the first half of a game (Eric Green, 1991).

Under Daniel's guidance, Heath Miller became one of the top pass catchers in franchise history. Miller, who retired on February 19, 2016, left the Steelers as the team's all-time leader in receptions (592), receiving yards (6,569) and receiving TDs (45) by a tight end.

Overall, Miller ranks third in career receptions, fourth in receiving yards, fifth in receiving TDs and sixth in scrimmage yards (6,577) in Steelers annals. Miller is one of 15 tight ends in NFL history to reach 6,000 career receiving yards during the regular season.

A native of Wetumpka, Ala., Daniel was a three-year starter (offensive guard) and four-year letter winner at Alabama State University from 1970-73. Daniel is married to Myrtis.

Karl Dunbar is in his third season as the Steelers' defensive line coach and his 14th year as a defensive line coach in the National Football League. He was hired by the Steelers on February 8, 2018.

In 2019, Dunbar mentored defensive tackle Cameron Heyward, who was named All-Pro for the second time in his career (2017). Heyward finished the season with 9.0 sacks, 22 quarterback hits, 11 tackles for a loss and 6 passes defended. Heyward not only led all NFL defensive tackles in stops with 83, but he also led the League in tackles by a defensive lineman. In fact, his 83 tackles were the most by a Steelers defensive lineman since Donald Evans had 84 in 1993.

Among NFL defensive tackles in '19, Heyward ranked second in quarterback hits, second in sacks and fourth in tackles for loss.

Another Dunbar protege, nose tackle Javon Hargrave, recorded 60 tackles, 7 tackles for loss, 6 quarterback hits, 4.0 sacks and 1 forced fumble in 2019. Hargrave's 60 tackles were the most among all nose tackles in the NFL and ninth-most among defensive tackles. Among all NFL nose tackles in '19, Hargrave ranked tied for second in sacks, quarterback hits and tackles for loss.

Dunbar and his wife, Pamela, have three children: Karmichael Mackenzie II, Mickel Angelle and Nickolette Alyse. A native of Opelousas, La., Dunbar graduated from Louisiana State University with a bachelor's degree in criminal justice.

Ike Hilliard is in his first season as the Steelers' wide receivers coach in 2020 and 10th year as a wide receivers coach in the National Football League. Hilliard was hired by Pittsburgh on February 18, 2020.

Hilliard served as the wide receivers coach in Washington for seven seasons over two different stints (2012), including the last six years. He has also served as the wide receivers coach in Buffalo (2013) and assistant wide receivers coach in Miami (2011).

Under Hilliard's tutelage in 2019, wideout Terry McLaurin had one of the top rookie receiving seasons in Washington Football Team history. He led Washington in all three major receiving categories. McLaurin registered 58 catches for 919 yards and 7 TD receptions in 14 games. His 919 receiving yards and 7 TDs ranked second in franchise rookie history. Among all NFL rookies, McLaurin ranked second in receiving yards, tied for second in receptions and tied for third in TD receptions. He also ranked second in yards per catch (15.8) among rookies with at least 20 receptions.

As a player, Hilliard was a first-round selection in the 1997 NFL Draft (No. 7 overall). He played 12 seasons, eight with the New York Giants (1997-2004) and four with the Tampa Bay Buccaneers (2005-08). In 161 career games (106 starts), Hilliard caught 546 passes for 6,397 yards and 35 TDs.

Hilliard played collegiately at the University of Florida from 1994-96, catching 126 passes for 2,214 yards and 26 TDs. He earned first-team All-SEC and All-American honors as a junior. In the final game that season, he recorded 7 catches for 150 yards and 3 TDs to help lead the Gators to a 52-20 Sugar Bowl win to secure the school's first national championship.

Hilliard is a native of Patterson, La.

Eddie Faulkner is in his second season as the running backs coach for the Steelers, after being hired on January 17, 2019.

Prior to joining the Steelers, Faulkner spent six years, 2013-18, at North Carolina State University as the school's tight ends/fullbacks/special teams coordinator. In 2017, Faulkner was selected to participate in the NCAA Champion Forum as one of eight minority coaches in the nation chosen to participate in the professional development opportunity.

While at N.C. State, Faulkner coached the program's all-time receptions leader and current Steelers running back Jaylen Samuels, who finished his career with 202 catches while earning first-team All-Atlantic Coast Conference honors in 2015 and in 2017. In 2017, Samuels finished third in the conference with 16 TDs — the third-most in a season by a N.C. State footballer. Wolf-pack running back Reggie Gallaspy II tied for fifth in the nation with 19 total TDs in 2018, scoring 18 on the ground.

A native of Muncie, Ind., Faulkner attended Muncie Central High School. He earned a B.A. in history from Wisconsin in 2000, and a M.A. in adult, higher and community education from Ball State in 2004. He and his wife, Anissa, have three children: Eddie IV, Madison Rose and Xavier.

+ Adrian Klemm is in his second season as the assistant offensive line coach for the Steelers, after being hired on February 15, 2019.

Two Steelers offensive linemen — David DeCastro and Maurkice Pouncey — were selected to the 2020 Pro Bowl, an honor each received for the third consecutive year. Klemm, a three-time Super Bowl champion during his NFL playing career, joined the Steelers after nine seasons in the collegiate ranks.

Most recently, Klemm was the Associate Head Coach/Run Game Coordinator/Offensive Line at UCLA from 2012-16.

Klemm was a four-year starter at the University of Hawaii (1996-99) and a part of the biggest turnaround in NCAA history. Hawaii improved from 0-12 to 9-4 to win a bowl game during the 1999 season. Following his senior year, Klemm was selected as the starting left tackle in the Senior Bowl and received invitations to the East-West Shrine Game and the Hula Bowl. He earned a bachelor's degree in liberal arts from Excelsior College in 2008.

Klemm was selected by the New England Patriots in the second-round of the 2000 NFL Draft, where he spent the first five of his seven NFL seasons.

He was a member of three Patriots Super Bowl Championship teams (XXXVI, XXXVII and XXXIX) before joining the Green Bay Packers in 2005.

A native of Los Angeles, Calif., Klemm has two sons, Jalen and Nikko.

+ Shaun Sarrett was promoted to offensive line coach on January 14, 2019, after serving the 2018 season as the Steelers' assistant offensive line coach. Sarrett joined the Steelers in 2012 and spent six years as an offensive assistant, primarily helping coach the offensive line, and assisting the offensive coaching staff with game preparation, video analysis and the scouting of opponents.

Two Steelers offensive linemen — David DeCastro and Maurkice Pouncey — were selected to the 2020 Pro Bowl, an honor each received for the third consecutive year.

In 2018, the Steelers' offensive line allowed just 24.0 sacks — the fourth-fewest allowed by an NFL team on the season — and the third consecutive year the Pittsburgh offensive line finished top five in the category. The Steelers yielded 21.0 sacks in 2016 (2nd) and 24.0 in 2017 (3rd). Only one other team has allowed fewer than the Steelers' 69.0 sacks over the three-year span.

Since 2014, Pittsburgh yielded 167.0 sacks, which is the third-fewest sacks allowed among all NFL teams.

Sarrett spent four seasons as the offensive quality control and offensive line assistant coach for Duke University. During the 2011 season, Sarrett assumed Ron Middleton's tight end coaching responsibilities when an injury sidelined him. He joined the Duke staff after spending two years as a graduate assistant at Marshall University, where he earned a master's degree in special education. Prior to his stint at Marshall, he served as an offensive and defensive line coach at Streetsboro High School (Streetsboro, Ohio).

A native of Beckley, W.Va., Sarrett played guard for Kent State University and was a three-year letterman. He received the Dick Scesniak Award for overcoming adversity during the 2003 season, and he earned his degree in health education in 2004. Sarrett is married to the former Amy Luempert of Lorain, Ohio.

+ Jerry Olsavsky is in his sixth season as the team's inside linebackers coach. Olsavsky was promoted to his current position on February 6, 2015.

Olsavsky oversaw the development of rookie Devin Bush in 2019. Bush set a franchise rookie record with 109 tackles, which is the most by a Steeler in a season since Lawrence Timmons had 114 in 2016. Bush was the only NFL rookie with a fumble recovery (4), interception (2), forced fumble (1) and 100 or more tackles (109).

Bush was the first NFL rookie with at least 100 tackles, 4 fumble recoveries, 2 interceptions, 1 forced fumble and 1.0 sack in the same season since Bennie Blades of the Detroit Lions in 1988. He also was the first NFL rookie since the 1970 NFL-AFL merger with at least 85 tackles, 4 fumble recoveries, 2 interceptions and 1 TD fumble return in a season. Bush was chosen by the Pittsburgh Chapter of the Pro Football Writers Association as the winner of the Joe Greene Great Performance Award, given annually to the top Steelers rookie.

Olsavsky was selected by the Steelers in the 10th round (258th overall) of the 1989 NFL Draft, and played linebacker from 1989-97. He saw action in 108 games for the Steelers, making 227 tackles, while also excelling on special teams. Olsavsky battled back from a career threatening knee injury in 1993 and helped lead the Steelers to a berth in Super Bowl XXX. In 1995, he was the recipient of the Steelers' Ed Block Courage Award, given annually to the Steeler that overcomes many obstacles to achieve great success on the field. Olsavsky finished his playing career in 1998 with the Baltimore Ravens.

Playing collegiately at the University of Pittsburgh, Olsavsky was a first-team Kodak All-American as a senior in 1988, when he made 129 tackles. He became the Panthers' first defensive player since 1976 to record more than 100 tackles in three consecutive seasons. He earned his degree in information science in 1990.

Olsavsky was born in Youngstown, Ohio, and he resides in Pittsburgh with his three children, Joseph, Emma and Dominic.

The Pittsburgh Steelers Hall of Honor, established with its inaugural class of 27 members in 2017, is comprised of former players, coaches, and front office personnel who were integral in creating and sustaining the franchise's success dating back to when the team was founded in 1933.

Each Hall of Honor inductee receives a replica of a solid steel football, which replicates the original that was given to Steelers' founder Art Rooney Sr. by the United States Steel Corporation and United Steel Workers in 1982 on the occasion of the team's 50th Season. They will be part of a display to be located inside the FedEx Great Hall at Heinz Field.

The following are the guidelines for eligibility to be considered for the Steelers' Hall of Honor:

Former Players

- Retired for at least three seasons
- Must have played for the Steelers for a minimum of three seasons
- Should possess noteworthy career highlights, records, and achievements

Former Coaches and Contributors

- Significant contributions to the team and community

CLASS OF 2020

The Steelers' Hall of Honor Class of 2020 was announced on team media channels on Sept. 25. This year's class includes James Farrior, Greg Lloyd, Troy Polamalu, Mike Wagner, and Dwight White.

JAMES FARRIOR

Linebacker (2002-11)

Class of 2020

James Farrior joined the Steelers as a free agent in 2002 and went on to record 30 sacks and 1,078 tackles during his 10 seasons with the team. A member of the Super Bowl XL and XLIII championship teams, James was named Steelers Most Valuable Player and First-Team All-Pro in 2004 and was chosen to play in the Pro Bowl in 2004 and 2009. In 16 playoff games, Farrior had 97 tackles, four sacks, two interceptions and eight passes defended.

GREG LLOYD

Class of 2020

Lloyd was drafted by the Steelers in the sixth round in 1987 out of Fort Valley State, one of the Historically Black Colleges and Universities. During his Steelers career, he was twice named the team's Most Valuable Player (1991 & 1994), was voted to five straight Pro Bowls (1991-95), was First-Team All-Pro three straight years (1993-95) and was the UPI AFC Defensive Player of the Year (1994). Lloyd still ranks ninth on the Steelers' all-time sacks list with 53.5 and was a member of the team's 75th Season All-Time Team.

DWIGHT WHITE

Defensive End (1971-80)

Class of 2020

White was also one of only 22 players to win Super Bowls IX, X, XIII and XIV with the Steelers. After spending the week leading up to Super Bowl IX in the hospital with pneumonia, he didn't miss the game, even scoring the Steelers' first points with a safety. Dwight was voted to two Pro Bowls (1972-73) and was a member of the Steelers' 50th and 75th Season All-Time Teams (1982 & 2007). His 46 sacks still rank 10th in team history.

MIKE WAGNER

Safety (1971-80)

Class of 2020

Wagner is one of only 22 players to win four Super Bowls (IX, X, XIII and XIV) during the Steelers' dynasty of the 1970s. He recorded key fourth-quarter interceptions in Super Bowls IX and X to help secure the Steelers' victories. Mike was the NFL co-leader with eight interceptions in 1973 and finished his 10-year career with 36. He was named First-team All-Pro in 1973 and voted to two Pro Bowls (1975-76). Wagner was also a member of the Steelers' 50th Season All-Time Team in 1982.

TROY POLAMALU

Strong Safety (2003-14)

Class of 2020

The Steelers' first-round draft pick in 2003 (16th overall), Polamalu was elected to the Pro Football Hall of Fame this year in his first year of eligibility. During his 12-year career with the Steelers, he became a two-time Super Bowl champion (XL and XLIII), was voted to eight Pro Bowls, was named First-team All-Pro four times and was NFL Defensive Player of the Year in 2010. In addition, Troy was a member of the Steelers' 75th Season All-Time Team and the NFL's 2000s All-Decade Team.

HEAD COACH

RON RIVERA

PRO CAREER: Became the 30th coach in Washington history on January 1, 2020. In eight-plus seasons with the Carolina Panthers, Rivera guided the team to a Super Bowl appearance, an NFC Championship and three NFC South titles. He is a two-time (2013 and 2015) Associated Press NFL Coach of the Year award winner. Rivera inherited a 2-14 Carolina team as a rookie head coach in 2011 and guided it back to relevance with four playoff appearances in a five-year span (2013-17). In 2015, Rivera led the Panthers to the second Super Bowl appearance in team history following a franchise-best 15-1 record and their third consecutive NFC South championship. In the process, Carolina became the fourth team in the Super Bowl era to start a season 14-0, joining the 1972 Miami Dolphins, 2007 New England Patriots and 2009 Indianapolis Colts. Carolina's 18-game regular season winning streak was the longest in NFC history. In 2014, the Panthers became the first team since 1970 to overcome a six-game losing streak and win their division. In 2013, Rivera directed Carolina to 12 wins, the NFC South title and its first playoff appearance since 2008. Before joining Washington, Rivera coached the Panthers (2011-19), San Diego Chargers (2007-10), Chicago Bears (2004-06, 1997-98) and Philadelphia Eagles (1999-2003). In 2006, the Bears' defense led the NFL with 44 takeaways, helping propel Chicago to an appearance in Super Bowl XLI. He is just the third Latino head coach in NFL history, joining Tom Flores with the Oakland Raiders (1979-87) and Seattle Seahawks (1992-94) and Tom Fears with the New Orleans Saints (1967-70). Career record: 79-67-11.

BACKGROUND: Linebacker at California (1980-83), where he finished as the school's all-time leader in sacks (22) and tackles (336). Played with the Chicago Bears (1984-92), primarily as an outside linebacker. He was a member of the 1985 Super Bowl XX winning team.

PERSONAL: Born January 7, 1962 in Fort Ord, Calif. He and his wife, Stephanie, have two children—Christopher and Courtney.

The Pittsburgh Steelers are proud to be a part of the Western Pennsylvania community.

The organization's strong commitment to this area dates back to 1933 when Arthur J. Rooney, Sr. founded the team. That commitment was passed down to his son, late Steelers' Chairman, Ambassador Dan Rooney, and his grandson, President Art Rooney II. Steelers players, coaches and front office staff are involved in appearances, charitable donations and outreach programs with nonprofit and community groups. It's the team's way of giving back to the community that has given us so much!

Salute to Service Nominee: Jon Kolb

Jon Kolb is best known to Steelers fans for being a part of an offensive line that helped a prolific offense win four Super Bowl championships in the 1970s, as well as serving as an assistant coach with the team for 10 years. But he wants to be remembered for more.

“I didn't want playing football to be the biggest thing to ever happen to me, I wanted to make a difference.”

—JON KOLB

This year, Kolb is the Steelers' nominee for the NFL's Salute to Service Award presented by USAA. The award recognizes NFL players, coaches, personnel and legends who make a commitment to supporting the military community. Kolb has a soft spot in his heart for those who have served in the military after he himself joined the Army National Guard his rookie year with the Steelers in 1969.

After searching for a way to help others in the service, he founded the non-profit Adventures in Training with a Purpose (ATP) to confront health and movement related issues in vulnerable populations who no longer have the benefit of paid rehabilitation. It allows him to use his Master's Degree in exercise science, combined with his vast knowledge of strength and conditioning as a player, to help others, many of whom are veterans, improve their quality of life.

ATP is focused on improving the lives of men and women who served in the military through purposeful training in an effort to empower them and provide them the freedom to move and perform daily tasks on their own. Over 50 percent of ATP's clients are active-duty military or veterans, and all receive services free of charge at one of two locations in Pennsylvania and a third in Ohio.

Diabetes Awareness Month

November is American Diabetes Month, an opportunity to bring awareness to a disease that according to the CDC is something more than 30 million Americans live with.

And sadly, many youth 18 years old and under are among those who live with the disease. But the good news is, it's a disease you can live with, and live a normal life. Steelers defensive lineman Henry Mondeaux and tight end Kevin Rader are proof of that. Both Mondeaux and Rader have Type 1 diabetes and shared their stories with local youth living with it as well on a Zoom call in collaboration with JDRF, the Juvenile Diabetes Research Foundation. The Zoom call gave kids an opportunity to hear Mondeaux and Rader's stories and take part in a Q & A with the players.

Helping Families in Need

Last Wednesday, the Steelers and NFL teamed with the United Way of Southwestern Pennsylvania to provide boxes of food for 75 families through Center of Life in Pittsburgh's Hazelwood neighborhood.

The boxes contained everything from potatoes and vegetables, to stuffing and pies, and everything in between to help make Thanksgiving an enjoyable day.

While the team couldn't hand the food out in person because of COVID-19 protocols, the recipients did take part in a fun, unique Zoom call. The call, which was hosted by actor and Pittsburgh native Joe Manganiello, was with Ryan Shazier, who spent time talking to them, giving them his support and encouragement, and wishing them the best during the toughest of times and taking part in a Q & A.

"I am just glad to be involved with this," said Shazier. "I hope you guys enjoy the dinner. I think it's a wonderful time. COVID is slowing everybody down. I just hope everybody has a wonderful Thanksgiving. We understand how important this time of year is. Especially right now, it's a lot harder for everyone. We hope this brings some joy and cheer to families who need it. Everyone needs it right now."

STEELERS HISTORY

Celebrating 20 seasons at Heinz Field

The fifth-oldest franchise in the NFL, the Pittsburgh Steelers were founded on July 8, 1933, by Arthur Joseph Rooney. Originally named the Pittsburgh Pirates, they were a member of the Eastern Division of the 10-team NFL. The other four current NFL teams in existence at that time were the Chicago (Arizona) Cardinals, Green Bay Packers, Chicago Bears and New York Giants.

One of the great pioneers of the sports world, Art Rooney passed away on August 25, 1988, following a stroke at the age of 87. "The Chief," as he was affectionately known, is enshrined in the Pro Football Hall of Fame and is remembered as one of Pittsburgh's greatest people.

Born on January 27, 1901, in Coulterville, Pa., Art Rooney was the oldest of Daniel and Margaret Rooney's nine children. He grew up in Old Allegheny, now known as Pittsburgh's North Side, and until his death he lived on the North Side, just a short distance from where Three Rivers Stadium stood.

Rooney attended St. Peter's Parochial School and Duquesne University Prep School. He studied collegiately at Indiana (Pa.) Normal, which is now Indiana University of Pennsylvania, as well as at Georgetown and Duquesne.

An exceptional all-around athlete, Rooney held middleweight and welterweight titles from the AAU Boxing Championships and was named to the U.S. Olympic Boxing Team in 1920, although he did not participate in the Olympic Games. He played minor league baseball from 1920-25 before a promising career was cut short by an arm injury. Rooney continued playing football for several semi-pro teams in the Pittsburgh area. He was married on June 11, 1931, to Kathleen McNulty, and the couple had five sons — Daniel, Art Jr., Tim, John and Pat. In 1964, Rooney was inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame for his contributions to the growth of the NFL and the Pittsburgh Steelers.

By the mid-1960s, Rooney had begun to turn over much of the operation of the Steelers to his oldest son, Dan. After having worked in every area of the organization since 1955, Daniel M. Rooney was named president of the Steelers in 1975. In 2000, Dan Rooney was inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame. He joined his father Art to form only the second father-son tandem to be inducted into the Hall of Fame. The late New York Giants owners Wellington Mara and his father Tim were the first.

Late Steelers Chairman, Ambassador Dan Rooney, spent 54 consecutive years with the organization before being named U.S. Ambassador to Ireland in 2009 by President Barack Obama. Rooney was required to move to Ireland in 2009 to fulfill his duties as ambassador.

As an NFL owner, Dan Rooney was widely recognized as one of the league's most influential executives and one of Pittsburgh's leading contributors to civic affairs. Among his community activities, he was the co-founder of the American Ireland Fund, and he was a board member of the United Way of America, the American Diabetes Association, the Pittsburgh History and Landmarks Foundation, the Extra mile Foundation and the University of Pittsburgh Medical Center.

Dan Rooney was a member of several NFL committees over 30-plus years. He served on the board of directors for the NFL Trust Fund, NFL Films and the Scheduling Committee. He was appointed chairman of the Expansion Committee in 1973, which considered new franchise locations and directed the addition of Seattle and Tampa Bay as expansion teams in 1976.

In 1976, Rooney was also named chairman of the Negotiating Committee, and in 1982 he contributed to the negotiations for the Collective Bargaining Agreement for the NFL and the Players Association. He again played a key role in the labor agreement reached between NFL owners and players in 1993. Rooney was also largely responsible for developing the realignment plan and scheduling format that the NFL adopted prior to the 2002 season. In October 2002, he was named chairman of the NFL's Diversity in the Workplace Committee. Rooney was also Chairman of the Hall of Fame Committee. In February 1999, he was named the recipient of the Philadelphia Maxwell Football Club's Francis J. "Reds" Bagnell Award for outstanding contributions to the game of football.

Daniel M. Rooney was born on Pittsburgh's North Side on July 20, 1932. He was a 1950 graduate of North Catholic High School, where he played quarterback on the varsity football team. He went on to graduate from Duquesne University in 1955 with a bachelor of arts degree in accounting. Rooney passed away on April 13, 2017 at the age of 84, survived by his wife of 66 years, Patricia, and seven of their nine children, 20 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Dan Rooney was named Steelers Chairman Emeritus in July 2009 after he was named United States Ambassador to Ireland. Rooney served as United States Ambassador until late 2012.

In 2003, Dan Rooney officially turned over the title of Steelers team president to his oldest son, Arthur J. Rooney II, who had previously served as the team's vice president and general counsel. A 1978 graduate of the University of Pittsburgh where he majored in political science, Art II received his law degree from Duquesne University School of Law in 1982. He currently serves as Chairman of the NFL's Stadium Workplace Diversity Committee as well as the Chair of the NFL Compensation Committee. He also serves on additional NFL committees including the Legislative Committee, the Management Council Executive Committee, the International Committee, Health & Safety Advisory Committee, and the NFL Foundation.

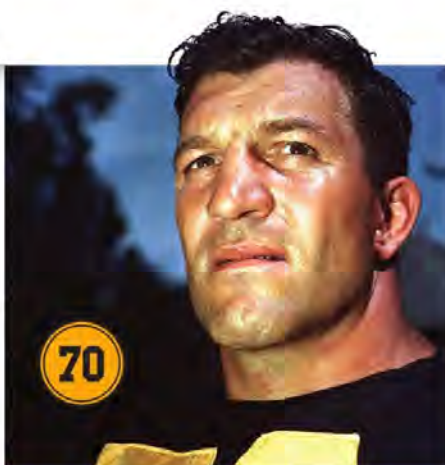

Art Rooney II is also very active in the Pittsburgh community, devoting a substantial amount of his time to various organizations. He currently serves on the boards of the Pittsburgh Public Theater, Saint Vincent College, Senator John Heinz Western Pennsylvania History Center, and the United Way of Southwestern Pennsylvania.

ART ROONEY

1930s After founding the Pirates in 1933, Art Rooney watched his club struggle through its first seven seasons with just 22 wins and five different head coaches. While home games were played at Forbes Field, Rooney often took his team to such cities as Johnstown, Latrobe, Youngstown, New Orleans and Louisville in the 1930s due to competition with baseball and college football.

In 1938, Rooney signed Colorado All-America Byron "Whizzer" White to a $15,800 contract, making White the first "big money" player in the NFL. White led the League in rushing that year and became one of the NFL's most illustrious alumni. He served 31 years as a Justice of the United States Supreme Court before retiring in 1993.

1940s In 1940, Rooney changed the team name to the Pittsburgh Steelers, representing the heritage of Pittsburgh. The first winning record in the organization's history came in 1942 when head coach Walt Kiesling led the Steelers to a 7-4 finish with the league-leading rushing of rookie Bill Dudley. But the next year, Dudley joined the Armed Forces along with many other NFL players as the nation went to war. With rosters depleted, Rooney merged the Steelers with the Philadelphia Eagles in 1943 (Phil-Pitt "Steagles") and with the Chicago Cardinals (Card-Pitt) in 1944.

Rooney hired legendary Pitt coach Jock Sutherland in 1946, and Dudley returned from the war to earn NFL MVP honors, leading the league in rushing, interceptions and punt returns. Today, Dudley is a member of the Pro Football Hall of Fame.

Sutherland led the 1947 Steelers to an 8-4 record and a share of the Eastern division title, but they lost their first-ever postseason game 21-0 to Philadelphia. Sutherland died suddenly the following spring while on a scouting trip.

DID YOU KNOW?

The Steelers signed Byron "Whizzer" White to a $15,800 contract, making White the first "big money" player in the NFL.

1950s Succeeding Sutherland, John Michelosen was head coach for the 1948-51 seasons, compiling a 20-26-2 record.

In 1952, Joe Bach returned for his second stint with the Steelers, having coached the team previously in 1935-36. The Steelers became the last team to abandon the single wing for the T-formation in 1952.

Bach resigned for health reasons following the 1954 season and was replaced by assistant coach Walt Kiesling, who had been the Steelers' head coach twice previously. Kiesling's three stints covered the 1939-40, 1941-44 and the 1954-56 campaigns.

1960s Buddy Parker was named head coach in 1957 and over the next eight years he led the Steelers to five non-losing seasons. Hall of Fame quarterback Bobby Layne led the team through three of those campaigns, leading the Steelers to a 9-5 mark and a playoff game versus Detroit in 1962, which the Steelers lost 17-10. Parker completed his tenure with a 51-48-6 record and ranks fourth among all-time Steelers coaches for career wins.

On October 25, 1964, the Steelers made team history when they retired jersey No. 70 in honor of former defensive tackle Ernie Stautner. Stautner, who was inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame in 1969, became the first Steelers player to have his jersey retired.

Brief head coaching stints by Mike Nixon in 1965 and Bill Austin from 1966-68 preceded the hiring of 37-year-old Chuck Noll on January 27, 1969. Noll began to rebuild the Steelers through the draft, starting with the defense when he selected defensive tackle Joe Greene with his first choice in 1969. Today, Greene is a member of the Pro Football Hall of Fame, and joined Stautner as the only two players to have their jerseys retired by the team. Greene's No. 75 was officially retired on November 2, 2014.

The Pittsburgh Steelers move from the NFL Century Division to the AFC Central with the merger of the American Football League and the NFL.

September 20 – The Steelers fall to the Houston Oilers 19-7 in their first regular-season game at Three Rivers Stadium.

1972

December 23 – The Steelers win their first playoff game in dramatic fashion with a 13-7 victory over the Oakland Raiders on Franco Harris' "Immaculate Reception."

1975

Dan Rooney is named President of the Pittsburgh Steelers.

1976

January 18 – The Steelers win their second consecutive league championship with a 21-17 victory over the Dallas Cowboys in Super Bowl X in Miami, Fla.

1979

January 21 – Pittsburgh defeats the Dallas Cowboys 35-31 in Super Bowl XIII in Miami, Fla., becoming the first team to win three Super Bowls.

1970

August 28 – Pittsburgh defeats the New York Giants 21-6 in the first preseason game at Three Rivers Stadium.

1975

January 12 – Pittsburgh defeats the Minnesota Vikings 16-6 to capture the team's first Super Bowl victory in Super Bowl IX in New Orleans' Tulane Stadium.

1970s A 1-13 record in 1969 gave the Steelers the first overall choice in the 1970 draft, with which Noll addressed the offense by selecting quarterback Terry Bradshaw, another Hall of Famer, after the Steelers won the first selection by winning a coin toss with the Chicago Bears. Cornerback Mel Blount was added in the third round that year, followed by linebacker Jack Ham in 1971 and running back Franco Harris in 1972. In all, Noll drafted 10 players who are now enshrined in the Hall of Fame including three in his first 20 picks and four of his first 38.

Two significant changes took place in 1970. The Steelers moved from the NFL Century Division to the AFC Central with the merger of the American Football League and the NFL. The Steelers also moved into a new home as Three Rivers Stadium opened. Previously, the Steelers had played home games at Forbes Field from 1933-57 and at both Forbes Field and Pitt Stadium from 1958-63. From 1964-69, the Steelers played at Pitt Stadium until Three Rivers opened in 1970.

Gradual improvement in the early 1970s resulted in the team's first division title in 1972 with an 11-3 record. In the first playoff game at Three Rivers, the Steelers defeated the Oakland Raiders 13-7 with Franco Harris' "Immaculate Reception" in the final minute. Despite a 21-17 loss the following week to the undefeated Miami Dolphins, the Steelers had reached a new plateau.

It took 40 years for the Steelers to finally win their first division title, but over the next decade they achieved a level of success unprecedented in professional football.

In 1973, the Steelers won a wild card playoff berth with a 10-4 record. Oakland avenged its loss from the previous year, however, with a 33-14 defeat of the Steelers in the playoffs.

January 29, 1974 – The Steelers select future Hall of Famers Lynn Swann (first round), Jack Lambert (second), John Stallworth (fourth) and Mike Webster (fifth) in the NFL Draft. Many consider it the best draft in NFL history. Following the draft, the Steelers also signed free agent Donnie Shell, who was elected into the Hall of Fame in 2020.

The Steelers won their first of six consecutive AFC Central titles in 1974 and marched past Buffalo (32-14) and Oakland (24-13) en route to their first Super Bowl appearance in Super Bowl IX. The fierce Pittsburgh defense led the way to a 16-6 victory over the Minnesota Vikings, and Art Rooney was presented the Vince Lombardi Trophy for the first time.

In 1975, the Steelers won 11 straight games to finish 12-2 and claimed their second-consecutive division crown. After defeating Baltimore (28-10) and Oakland (16-10) in the playoffs, the Steelers became the third team in NFL history, joining Green Bay and Miami, to win back-to-back Super Bowls with a 21-17 defeat of the Dallas Cowboys in Super Bowl X.

The 1976 Steelers struggled to a 1-4 start before reeling off nine straight victories, including five shutouts, to win the division with a 10-4 mark. They defeated Baltimore 40-14 in the playoffs, but lost to Oakland 24-7 after both starting running backs, Franco Harris and Rocky Bleier, were injured. The following year, the Steelers dropped a 34-21 decision to Denver in the first round of the playoffs after posting a 9-5 regular-season record.

In 1978, the Steelers made history after a league-best 14-2 regular season and playoff wins versus Denver (33-10) and Houston (34-5). Their 35-31 Super Bowl XIII win versus Dallas made the Steelers the first team to win three Super Bowls.

Yet another standard was set the following year when the 1979 Steelers defeated the Los Angeles Rams 31-19 in Super Bowl XIV to make them the first team in history to win four Super Bowls and the only team to win back-to-back Super Bowls twice. The Super Bowl victory followed a 12-4 regular-season record and playoff wins versus Miami (34-14) and Houston (27-13). With six consecutive AFC Central crowns, eight straight years of playoff appearances and four Super Bowl championships, the Steelers were tagged the "Team of the Decade" for the 1970s.

The 1970's Steelers were tagged "Team of the Decade."

1980s As the 1980s opened, the Steelers stumbled, failing to make the playoffs in 1980 and 1981 with records of 9-7 and 8-8.

In 1982, the Steelers celebrated the team's 50th anniversary by qualifying for the playoffs with a 6-3 finish in a strike-interrupted season. During the season an anniversary banquet was held to commemorate the team's first 50 seasons and to honor the Steelers' all-time team as selected by fan voting. Thousands of fans were attracted to Pittsburgh for a week of activities and exhibits before the anniversary season was ended by San Diego's 31-28 win in the playoffs. This would be the last playoff game at Three Rivers Stadium until the 1992 season, a span of 10 years.

The 1983 Steelers won their eighth division title with a 10-6 record, but fell in the postseason, 38-10, to the Los Angeles Raiders. The following year the Steelers won their ninth division crown and the team advanced to the AFC Championship game with a 24-17 playoff win at Denver. A 45-28 loss to Miami in the AFC Championship game prevented the Steelers from a fifth Super Bowl appearance.

The Steelers' streak of 13 consecutive non-losing seasons came to an end in 1985 with a 7-9 finish, followed by a 6-10 record in 1986. Playoff hopes remained alive in 1987 until the Steelers lost their last two games to finish 8-7 during the strike-shortened season.

In 1988, the team suffered through its worst campaign in 19 years with a 5-11 record. The next season got off to a similar start with losses of 51-0 and 41-10 in the first two games. But the young team fought back to finish 9-7 and earn a wild card playoff berth on the season's final weekend. An exciting 26-23 overtime playoff win in Houston was followed by a heartbreaking 24-23 divisional playoff loss at Denver in which the Steelers led until the final minutes.

The 1984 Steelers won their ninth division title with a 9-7 record.

STEELERS HISTORY

In 1992, 34-year-old Bill Cowher became the National Football League's youngest head coach at the time. In his first season, the Steelers won the AFC Central division crown for the first time since 1984.

1990s A 9-7 finish in 1990 left the Steelers in a three-way tie for the AFC Central lead, but they were eliminated from playoff contention by a 2-4 division record. The 1991 team finished second in the division despite a 7-9 record, winning the last two games under Noll at home against the Cincinnati Bengals and Cleveland Browns.

On December 26, 1991, Noll announced his retirement from football after 39 consecutive seasons, the last 23 as the Steelers' head coach, which made him one of only four men to coach the same team for 23 consecutive years. He left as the fifth-winningest coach in NFL history with an overall record of 209-156-1, and as the only coach to win four Super Bowls. Noll was rewarded in 1993 with his election to the Pro Football Hall of Fame in his first year of eligibility.

A new era began in 1992 with the retirement of Noll and the arrival of 34-year-old Bill Cowher, the National Football League's youngest head coach at the time he assumed control. In the first season of the new era, the Steelers won the AFC Central division crown for the first time since 1984 with an 11-5 record. While the team enjoyed new-found success, Cowher was recognized by the Associated Press as the NFL's Coach of the Year and six Steelers were selected to the Pro Bowl, the most in more than a decade.

Under Cowher, the Steelers became the first AFC team since the 1970 merger to claim its 10th division title. Their 11-5 record equaled the best in the conference and gave the Steelers home field advantage throughout the playoffs. However, in the first postseason game at Three Rivers Stadium in exactly 10 years, the Steelers were defeated by eventual AFC Champion Buffalo, 24-3.

In 1993, the Steelers earned a wild card playoff berth, marking their first consecutive playoff appearances since the 1983-84 seasons. A 9-7 record was good for second place in the division, but the season ended in a 27-24 overtime loss at Kansas City in an AFC Wild Card game.

The 1994 Steelers won seven of their final eight regular-season games for their strongest finish since 1978. They captured their second division title in three years with an AFC-best 12-4 record. After a 29-9 victory over the Cleveland Browns in the first round of the playoffs, Pittsburgh hosted its first AFC Championship game since 1979. The game went down to the wire and the Steelers lost to the San Diego Chargers 17-13.

At 38, Bill Cowher became the youngest head coach to lead his team to a Super Bowl appearance in 1995. Along the way, Cowher's team captured its third AFC Central division title in four years, made its fourth straight playoff appearance and won the Steelers' first AFC title since 1979. After a first-round bye, they defeated the Buffalo Bills (40-21) and the Indianapolis Colts (20-16), before losing to the Dallas Cowboys 27-17 in Super Bowl XXX in Tempe, Ariz.

In 1996, the Steelers finished 10-6 and earned their fifth consecutive trip to the playoffs. Cowher ended the season with 57 career victories, ranking him as the second-winningest coach in team history, behind his predecessor Noll.

The Steelers captured their fourth consecutive AFC Central title in 1997 while posting an 11-5 record. They were one play away from earning their sixth Super Bowl appearance but lost to Denver 24-21 in the AFC Championship game.

In 1998, the Steelers finished a disappointing 7-9, losing their last five regular-season games and missing the playoffs for the first time under Cowher.

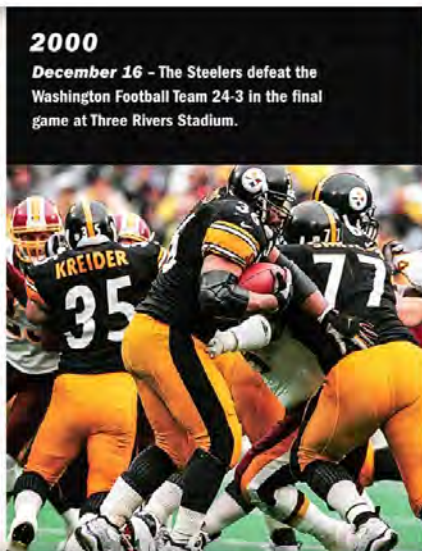

The Steelers suffered their second consecutive losing season in 1999, when their record fell to 6-10.

2000s After starting the 2000 season with an 0-3 record, the Steelers rebounded to finish the year at 9-7 and barely missed the playoffs.

However, 2000 will be remembered most for being the final season for the Steelers at Three Rivers Stadium. The Steelers were 4-4 at home during their final season, including victories in four of their final six home games. The Steelers won their final game at Three Rivers, 24-3, against the Washington Football Team on Dec. 16.

The Steelers finished 31 seasons at Three Rivers Stadium (1970-2000) with a 182-72 home record, including the postseason. The Steelers recorded their largest regular-season home attendance figures (440,428) since 1998 in the final season, including a season-high 58,183 fans during the final game in stadium history.

The Steelers began a new era in team history in 2001 with the opening of their new stadium, Heinz Field. The Steelers posted an AFC-best 13-3 regular-season record, including a 7-1 mark at home, and advanced to the AFC Championship Game.

The inaugural game at Heinz Field was originally scheduled to be a nationally televised Sunday Night game on Sept. 16. However, the September 11 terrorist attacks on America forced the NFL to postpone all games that weekend — which were eventually rescheduled for the end of the season. As a result, the Steelers opened Heinz Field on Sunday, Oct. 7 with a 16-7 win against the Cincinnati Bengals.

The Steelers defeated the defending Super Bowl Champion Baltimore Ravens 27-10 in the AFC Divisional Playoffs, in the first-ever postseason game played at Heinz Field. However, they suffered a disappointing 24-17 loss at home in the AFC Championship Game to the eventual Super Bowl Champion New England Patriots.

After an 0-2 start in 2002, the Steelers rallied to make the playoffs for the second consecutive season. However, the team's Super Bowl hopes ended when they lost 34-31 in overtime to the Tennessee Titans on the road in an AFC Divisional Playoff game.

The Steelers began the 2003 season with a 3-15 victory against AFC North rival Baltimore Ravens. However, the team never regained that magic and finished the year with a 6-10 record and missed the playoffs for the first time in three seasons.

The Steelers set a team record in 2004 by becoming the first AFC team to win 15 games (15-1) in the regular season. They ultimately advanced to the AFC Championship Game where they lost to the New England Patriots 41-27. Nine Steelers were selected to play in the AFC-NFC Pro Bowl, the team's most since the 1979 season.

Pittsburgh found itself sitting at 7-5 after 12 games in 2005, but rallied to win its final four regular-season games to earn the AFC's sixth seed in the playoffs. The Steelers then won an unprecedented three straight road playoff games to gain a berth in Super Bowl XL in Detroit versus the Seattle Seahawks.

STEELERS HISTORY

Wide receiver Santonio Holmes was named MVP after hauling in the game-winning six-yard touchdown pass from Ben Roethlisberger with 35 seconds remaining in regulation.

Tomlin became the first coach in franchise history to win a division title in each of his first two seasons when the Steelers captured their second consecutive AFC North division title with a 12-4 record in 2008. They went on to defeat the San Diego Chargers and Baltimore Ravens to gain a berth in Super Bowl XLIII in Tampa, Fla., versus the Arizona Cardinals.

The Steelers became the first NFL franchise to capture six Super Bowl titles when they defeated the Cardinals 27-23. With the victory, Tomlin became the youngest coach to win a Super Bowl in NFL history (36 years, 323 days). Wide receiver Santonio Holmes was named MVP after hauling in the game-winning six-yard touchdown pass from Ben Roethlisberger with 35 seconds remaining in regulation.

The Steelers added to their legacy, making it all the way to Super Bowl XLV after a 12-4 record during the 2010 season. The team could not overcome an early 18-point deficit and fell to the Green Bay Packers 31-25. Despite the loss, the Steelers still are tied for the NFL record for most Super Bowl victories with six.

The team donned a CHN commemorative patch in honor of the late Chuck Noll during the 2014 season. The team also retired Joe Greene's No. 75, all during its year of celebrating the team's 40th anniversary of its first championship with a uniform patch in 2014.

On April 13, 2017, the Steelers lost their Hall of Fame owner and Chairman, Ambassador Dan Rooney. The team wore a commemorative patch in honor of the late Mr. Rooney throughout the 2017 season.
